Request

I would like to know if there are any covenants, rules or restrictions on people parking caravans in their front gardens and across the boundary line of a neighbour's front garden?

The street in question is REDACTED.

I would also like to know who in Wigan Council would I speak to about enforcing the covenants, rules or restrictions should it apply to our Street.

Response

The Council does not place any covenants, rules or restrictions in place for whole streets that relate to people parking caravans in their front gardens and across the boundary line of a neighbour's front garden. This would appear to be a private matter between neighbours. The only possible involvement the Council would have would be if it owned a particular property. As no particular property has been identified, it is not possible to confirm this.
