

World Autism Acceptance Week 2023 27 March – 2 April

Number 1

by Brad Mirrelson

I'm born with autism, it's not that bad.

There's nothing wrong to feeling happy, angry or sad.

Not all autistic people are the same.

They are so special which is never a shame.

They are talented, they have a gift.

There are levels of talent that they can lift.

What I feel about being autistic and an actor is great

A lot of the love and support I really appreciate.

Being chosen to write this poem make me feel like a number one

All these kinds of subjects are absolute fun!
